

VIOLENCE: STANDARD PRESENTATION

OVERVIEW

Violence has been identified as one of the most significant law and order concerns facing our country for many years. The costs of violence and violent crime are significant. But while some communities are addressing part of the problem, many responses are still taking a fragmented approach in dealing with violence.

OUTLINE OF THIS SEMINAR

This seminar will:

- Discuss 'what is violence' and its complex dimensions
- Outline legal definitions from a New Zealand perspective
- Discuss reported and recorded violent crime and violence
- Understand the nature and dynamics of violence
- Discuss community responses over the past 20 years
- Provide opportunities to 'develop a community-wide' approach

WHO BENEFITS?

The seminar is designed to raise awareness at a community level. There are opportunities to customise various sections for more in-depth discussion
